"The Traitor."

As a picturesque Apostle of Truth Mr. Dixon, ably assisted by Mr. Channing Pollock, comes much nearer the mark, from a Virginian standpoint in his play, "The Traitor," presented at the Academy last night, that in "The Clansman," of which it is the sequel, and for that reason if for no other, will find favor with all fair-minded people, those at the North, who should be given an opportunity to shudder over the horrors of "carpetbag" days. "The Traitor" is well set, well staged and well played, in addition to being well received—a group of wells which should prove highly profitable. It's strong and, better still, it's clean.

charming stage presence, Miss Tower arose to every eccasion, and won her way by the sheer excellence of her art.

Mr. John Maurics Sullivan, as Steve Hoyle, the villain of the piece, brought down a perfect shower of hisses on his comely head—a compliment in which stage villains greatly delight. The hisses were emphasized last night.

Cheers greeted Mr. Dixqn's patriotic periods and followed his departure threigh a long crack in the curtain. It's a clever man who can be an apositic of truth and at the same time a "lesner of sheckels, Dowle, the Prophet, falled after a long whiskered struggle, but Mr. Dixon, clean shaven though he be, has "gotten it through."

The formula of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Practificity will fear the most critical examination of medical experts, for it centains no alcohol, narcoules, harmful, or habit-forming drugs, and no asent enters into it that is not highly recommended by the most advanced and leading medical teachers and authorities of their several schools of practice These authorities recommend the ingredient of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Precureton for the cure of exactly the same alterents for which this world-famed medicine is advised.

No other medicine for women altha has an example of the content of the same alterents for which this world-famed medicine is advised. "Shore Acres," this week's bill at the Bijou, is one of the best productions on Bifou, is one of the best productions on the road. It is a play of home and heart and would no doubt have had a better chance if phyed by a good company. Archie Boyd, as Nathaniel Berry, is the whole snow. He has the faculty of injecting good, clean humor in his lines at the proper time and place, and then again, he rises to great dramatic heights in the scene where he denounces his brother.

The play carries one to the New England country, with its quaint folk, and tells a story of one brother against the other—one willing to descerate his mother's grave, while the other resents the scheme.

Miss Adell Barker, as the negro "mammy," and Arthur J. Pickens as an exhusband, furnished very pleasant comedy, while Louis Alward, a clansman, made the most of a small part, showing what he could do with a big one if he got the chance.

In the hands of Mr. Forrest Winant and Miss Mariou Willard a love story of tender years found a most attractive resting place, despite the attempts of a youthful mamma (Miss Lydia Knott) to make the boy his sweetheart's stepfather.

Good Attendance at Colemial.

This week's Colonial bill is vastly superior to that of last week, and is proof conclusive that there is a standard in vaudeville, as well as in the legitimate, and that it is not necessary that every act should be of the same nature in order that there should be a standard. Otherwise, one would expect as high class a show at the 10-cent moving picture theatre as at the high-priced houses.

The opener on the program is the novel and unique musical travesty of Clansman," of which it is the sequel, and for that reason, if for no other, will find favor with all fair-minded people, those at the North, who should be given an opportunity to shudder over the horrors of "carpetbag" days, no less than those of the South, in whose memory the humfilation of persecution can never wholly die.

In "The Traitor" the unspeakable "black shadow" is eliminated. It is a white man's story, painted in bold, clear colors, with a fearless hand. Federal justice of those fearful times, with its negro juries, its corrupt judges and its heartless procedures, is held up to lasting scorn, but there is lacking a sentiment of unfairness, for the strongest character in the play is Stella, the daughter of a Varkey of the strong and prove highly profitable. It's strong and, better still, it's clean. CEACHED FREMY'S SKULL AFTER GETTING A WARRANT

Pink) Smith (colored) got out a warron' yesterlay for Walter Staples, same color, charking the latter with attempting to cut him with a razor. After having delivered the warrant into the hands of the police and knowing that the sleuths were on Walter's trail, Pinky was not content. So seeking out the haunts of Walter he waited patiently until he appeared and then cracked him over the head with a brick. Dr. Esgleston, of the city ambujerce, was called and took two stitches in Walter's skull. Both Pinky and Walter are now in limbo.

FIRED PISTOL WHEN HE GOT INTO THICK TROUBLE

George Brag (colored) got into an alter-cation with William Smith, also colored, in the viciolity of the Chesspeake and Ohio frailway Station last night, and when the latter showed signs of a good fight drew a gun and fired at him. The bullet went wide of its mark and Smith was nut harmed. Officers Andrews came up in time to arrest Brag. He is charged with shoot-ing with latent to kill and carrying con-cealed weapons.

Here is an Event in Fiction, a great story - an addition to the Aristocracy of Novels. All of Mrs. Ward's women pale before the white fire of the spirit of Diana Mallory.

The Testing of Diana Mallory

Young, gracious, sweet-hearted, Diana Mallory is brought with brutal suddenness into cruel knowledge affecting her dead young mother. Just before the blow strikes, she is betrothed to the man she loves. Therefore to him comes the highest possible privilege -- to guard and shelter in time of trouble the woman he loves. And the man-but that's the story. The original paintings by W. Hatherell. R. I.. make great illustrations.

MORE DISORDERS OCCUR

of comparative quiet there was a renewal to-night of the disorders that accompanied the strike of the Taxicab drivers Saturday and Sunday. In an effort to compel strike-breakers to cease operating machises stones and other missiles were hurled at them. Several were injured, and the windows of a number of the machines were broken. In one case a chauffeur was chased to the river front and had to abandon his machine and jump overboard to escape his persecutors.

President Allen, of the Taxicab Company, to-day installed a large number of cots in the barns of the company, the ding to house the strike-breakers, but the city officials issued an order compelling him to remove them, saying it would be unsafe for so many persons to occupy the barns as sleeping quarters. ewal to-night of the disorders that
